

Allies Massing Troops For Advance on Nish, Serbian Rly. Centre

Object Of Reorganization Of Entente Forces In Macedonia Apparently Is To Get Astride Famous Berlin-Constantinople Railroad—People Of Thessaly More Friendly To Allies Since Departure Of Former King Constantine—British Retire From Advance Positions East Of Arras—Italians Repulse Attacks Of Austrians.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
The massing of entente troops in Thessaly, south of the centre of the line now held by General Sarraill's forces, taken in connection with the withdrawal of their forces on the extreme eastern wing along the lower reaches of the Struma River, seemingly is an indication that big events are in the making in the Macedonian theatre, in an attempt to retake Serbia, or at least that portion of it as far as Nish, through which runs the famous Berlin-Constantinople Railway. Along the Vardar and Morava River valleys northward through Serbia undoubtedly would prove easier ground over which to operate than northward along the Struma and through western Bulgaria to the junction of the railway at Sofia. No impediment is being placed in the way of the troops that have been landed in Thessaly and with the departure of Former King Constantine from the country the people are declared to have become more friendly to the allied cause by placing their adherence to the provisional government of Eliphtherios Venizelos.

British Hold Bridgehead
Although on the eastern wing the British have given up numerous villages, which they previously burned, they are holding tightly to the bridgehead position on the left bank of the river Struma in the Lake Tachinos-Bukovo sector, northeast of Saloniki. That the retirement of the British is voluntary is indicated by the Bulgarian official report dealing with the manoeuvre, which does not mention any fighting as having taken place. There has, however, already been some activity on the part of the British in the Vardar-Lake Doiran sector, but Sofia reports that the attempt made by them to advance near Dautli was repulsed.

West Front
To the east of Arras on the front in France the British troops have been compelled to fall back from advanced positions before an attack delivered by the Germans which was covered by a heavy bombardment. Otherwise there has been no fighting anywhere in France or Belgium except by raiding parties and by the artillery wings of opposing forces.

In the Austro-Italian theatre the first fighting in more than a week on the Carso Plateau, where recently the Italians attempted to break through toward Trieste is chronicled by Rome. Northwest of Jamiano the Italians in an attack have been able to advance and straighten out their line. In the Trentino zone Austrian attacks against Italian positions on the Asiago Plateau and in the Vodic district were repulsed.

Enemy Repulsed.
London, June 18.—"We captured 21 prisoners this morning," said the official report from British headquarters in France tonight, "in the course of the enemy's unsuccessful attempt to regain his lost positions on Infantry Hill. Our troops gained ground during the night on the Mameles battlefield in the direction of Warrenton."

"Artillery activity continued today on both sides in the neighborhood of Lens and north of Arras. The enemy yesterday made a heavy bombardment in our favor. Ten German machines were brought down by our airplanes and five others were driven down out of control. Two of our airplanes failed to return."

London, June 18.—The war office issued the following statement this morning:
"Early this morning the enemy delivered a strong local attack, under cover of a heavy bombardment upon the positions captured by us on the morning of June 14, east of Moncay le Proux. After severe fighting our troops were compelled to fall back from certain advanced positions which had been established by us in front of our main new position, which we still hold on Infantry Hill."

"There was considerable artillery activity on both sides during the night north of Scarpe. Hostile artillery activity continues in the neighborhood of Ypres."

AIR FIGHTING NOW IN MASS FORMATION

Germans Flying In Squadrons—British Airmen Ready For Them.

(By the Associated Press.)
BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, June 18, via London.—Having been virtually driven from the air during the battle of Messines, the German air forces have been attempting to reassert themselves during the past week by adopting the familiar of Teuton tactics of mass formations. The British pilots report that they seldom meet the Germans now in squadrons of less than fifteen machines, while occasionally they encounter an enemy aerial army consisting of from forty to sixty machines.

None of these great formations have yet been able to cross the British lines, for the new tactics have found the Royal Flying Corps prepared, and numbers have been met with numbers. Some of the battles of the last few days have found as many as fifty and eighty machines involved.

All these engagements have occurred well inside German territory and have been barely visible from the British lines. The pilots engaged found the fighting so heavy that they had no time to reckon the losses inflicted upon the retreating Germans. Later, however, British machines flew over the fighting and heavy losses were reported. One of these general losses was the loss of a German machine which had been burned or wrecked. After one of these general losses ten enemy planes were seen on the morning of June 18. These planes had been compelled to abandon the fight, one of these being able to land within his own lines.

One young pilot, who bids soon to rival the record made by the late Capt. Ball, emulated the latter a few days ago by deliberately "sitting" on a German airplane some twenty miles within the enemy lines and smashing one by one four machines which came to attack him.

PAN-GERMAN PRESS ANGRY AT THE GOVT.
Perturbed Over Government's Attitude on "No Annexations, No Indemnities"

Amsterdam, June 18, via London.—The Pan-German press is greatly perturbed over what the Vorwarts, the Socialist organ of Berlin, terms "the first, if only partial, commitment of the government to the formula of peace without annexations or indemnities."

In the statement of the semi-official Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin concerning President Wilson's note to Russia, the Pan-German press says there is the risk of being pinned down to the principle of peace without annexations or indemnities, even if not until the day when negotiations between Germany and Russia really begin. The Neue Nachrichten of Berlin is angry at the continuous repetition of these declarations to Russia.

CONSCRIPTION DANGEROUS TO NAT'L UNITY

So Says E. L. Patenaude In Letter To Sir Robert Borden.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
OTTAWA, June 18.—Sir Robert Borden tabled in the commons today the correspondence between Hon. E. L. Patenaude, secretary of state, who resigned from the cabinet a week ago Saturday, and himself. Mr. Patenaude in his letter said that from the moment the prime minister had announced his intention to introduce conscription he had drawn his attention to its extreme gravity and to the consequences which to his mind would follow. He had abstained from hasty action because he had entertained the hope that the serious events which were developing would induce the prime minister to modify, if not to completely change, his decision. "I cannot now expect my hope will be realized. You have, in fact decided to introduce, without further delay, your proposed bill, and have it passed during this session. Therefore I feel bound to sever my connection with the cabinet on this question."

Mr. Patenaude went on to say that he had always thought it to be the duty of Canada to give the cause of the allies generous support, but he could not concur in measures which imperil national unity. It would be better, he said, to keep the country united in the present effort than to attempt a makeshift one that would cause national disruption. Mr. Patenaude declared it was not his intention to associate himself in any way with the extreme views expressed in the general assembly of the Conservatives. In closing, Mr. Patenaude said that he did not question the rectitude or the patriotism of the prime minister.

Sir Robert Borden, in reply, accepting the resignation, said that the military service bill does not embody a new principle as to compulsory military training. The only question, he said, was as to the character of the emergency and the duty of the government. He could not emphasize too strongly the gravity of every part of the empire. As to danger of disunion and discord, he regretted that the bill was necessary upon the introduction of the bill.

AMENDMENTS FORECASTED TO DIVORCE LAW

Ottawa Press Despatch Says Officials Are Working On Proposed Changes.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
WINNIPEG, June 18.—An Ottawa despatch to the Free Press today says:
"With a view of decreasing the high cost of divorces the legal officials of parliament and of the department of justice are at present working on some amendments to be changed in the procedure as it at present obtains. Out on the prairies men have been stacking up money to secure the severance of marital entanglements which exist only by law, and in many cases have been unable to afford the expenses even after their former mates have long been absent from them. The chief difficulty is connected with the bringing of witnesses to Ottawa and payment of legal fees."

"It is proposed that a king's proctor will be appointed in connection with the parliamentary divorce committee; that provision will be made for the taking of evidence at various points throughout the country, and that such evidence may be presented here by the king's proctor, the impression in neutral and probably of the respondent only, being required. It is also proposed that legal fees be fixed by law."

DEPRECIATION IN VALUE OF MARK IS MADE PEACE PLEA
Vorwarts Says Improvement Impossible So Long As German Wages War.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
AMSTERDAM, June 18, via London.—Lamenting the depreciation in value of the mark the Socialist newspaper Vorwarts of Berlin says there are various reasons for this, including the determined will to war of the United States which has made an extraordinary impression in neutral countries. The newspaper concludes:

"The best means of preventing depreciation is a speedy peace. All other means are nothing but apologies. The improvement in the rate of exchange is impossible so long as Germany wages war against a league which aims at her destruction."

The German mark went to a new low level on June 9 when a dispatch from Bern, Switzerland, said it had reached 71 francs for 100 marks compared with 123 in peace times. The rate of the mark on that date dropped lower than the Italian lire, which was quoted at 72.

UNION JACK TAKEN UP BUNKER HILL IN MILITARY PARADE

Carried At Head Of Bagpipe Band New Brunswick Militia.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
Boston, June 18.—The British Union Jack was taken up Bunker Hill for the first time today in a military civic parade commemorating the historic fight on the Charlestown, between the American minutemen and the English red-coats, 142 years ago. It fluttered at the head of the bagpipe band of the New Brunswick militia battalion on its farewell appearance before returning home after a two weeks' recruiting campaign here. The parade was the principal feature of the celebration of Charlestown. Thousands of sailors, marine, and national guardsmen were in line with the fraternal organizations and high school cadets.

MOVEMENT FOR REFORM GAINS GROUND SPAIN

Discontent With Existing Methods Has Long Been General.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
MADRID, via Paris, June 18.—A movement for a radical rebuilding of the whole political edifice in Spain is gaining adherents everywhere. Discontent with existing methods has long been general among the advanced Liberals and reformers among the other parties of the left. Internal and external difficulties arising from the war have served to heighten and increase it and it has gained among the other parties. Even former Premier Maura, leader of the Conservative party, has said there is ground for dissatisfaction.

Senor Gomez, editor of the Correspondencia de Espana, summed up the general grievance in a forcible article recently. He wrote:

"We ought all to imitate the soldiers in refusing to be down-trodden a moment longer. The soldiers have shown us the only way possible—an organization with the firm determination to carry out their point regardless of sacrifice."

The whole of Spain, with the exception of a thousand families, who monopolize the sweets of office, is sick to death of the favoritism which consigns the country to eternal stagnation, and is only waiting for the signal to rise like one man and do away with it forever. Favoritism is the cancer which is killing Spain, and we will put an end to her unless we put an end to it."

Among the steps the movement is taking for the reorganization of the higher commands in the army, which is being studied by the Minister of War, Gen. Primo-Rivera. While Premier Dato enacts a law to give confidence in the outlook is not altogether shared by political observers, who unanimously agree that the situation continues one of extraordinary difficulty.

GERMANS ADMIT THE LOSS OF ZEPPELIN

Say Attack Was Upon "Important Fortresses In South Of England."

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
BERLIN, via London, June 18.—The Zeppelin 248 was lost with all on board on Saturday night's raid on southern England, the admiralty announced. The statement followed: "On the night of June 16, one of our air squadrons in command of Capt. Victor Schuette attacked important fortresses in the south of England. Good results were observed. The air ships had a fierce fight with British sea and land forces and airmen, in which Zeppelin 248 was brought in a burning condition into the sea. The entire crew, including Capt. Schuette, met the death of heroes. The remaining returned safely."

An official British account states that the 248 fell in a field a few miles from the coast instead of the sea as the German statement reports.

Says if Conscription is Adopted on Referendum Quebec Will Support It

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Gives His Personal Pledge In Moving Amendment Seconded By Hon. Frank Oliver—Action Of Liberal Party Came As A Surprise—Secret Well Kept—Impression Had Been Created That Nothing Had Been Definitely Decided Upon At Caucus—Amendment Expected Later On.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
OTTAWA, Ont., June 18.—"That the further consideration of this bill be deferred until the principle thereof has, by means of a referendum, been submitted to and approved by the electors of Canada."

The foregoing amendment moved in the House of Commons this afternoon by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, seconded by Hon. Frank Oliver, to the second reading of the Military Service bill, as moved by Sir Robert Borden, came as somewhat of a surprise.

The impression had been created subsequent to the Liberal caucus in the morning that the opposition had not up to that time definitely agreed upon an amendment, but that one would be forthcoming at a later date.

The secret was well kept, and it was not until the trend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's remarks indicated the probability of an amendment being moved, that one was really expected.

Criticizes Proposal.
The opposition leader for an hour and a half spoke in criticism of the government's conscription proposal. He dealt with the question in all its aspects, maintaining that it was unwise to introduce conscription without consulting the people. He referred more particularly to the opposition of organized labor and the situation in Quebec, regretting that the French-Canadians have not more freely enlisted and expressing the opinion that they would have done so had recruiting been properly handled in that province. Sir Wilfrid expressed the belief that the line of cleavage on the question is deep and serious. It was one of the most complicated questions that ever came before parliament, he said. The opposition leader gave his personal pledge that in the event of conscription being adopted following a referendum, the people of Quebec would support it to a man.

Premier Brief.
Sir Robert Borden, who preceded the opposition leader, spoke for a few minutes only. He emphasized his argument advanced on the first reading of the bill, that the conscription proposal marks no departure from the principle contained in the Militia Act. He gave the house an analysis of the figures relative to the number of men available for immediate service and pleaded for the speedy passage of the measure, in order that immediate aid might be afforded to the soldiers at the front.

Sir George Foster maintained that the issue was today compulsion or no compulsion. He said that not a single word had been said about the principle contained in the Militia Act. He repeated that the principle contained in the Militia Act was a new principle. It would be said that the people could speak. When the prime minister made a promise of five hundred thousand men it was understood that these would be volunteers. He said that these would be volunteers and not by conscription.

He had challenged Sir Robert Borden on that occasion to make a statement as to the attitude of the government in regard to conscription and the prime minister had said: "I made it clear during the first few months of this war that there would be no conscription. I repeat that statement today." Sir Robert said he was satisfied with what progress had been made in all the provinces.

Sir Wilfrid said that if the house had been told one year ago that conscription was to be introduced the life of parliament would not have been extended.

People Settle Issue.
The issue would be settled by the people. He described parliament as a "rump," which might have the right but not the right to pass such a law. A proposal to do so was an abuse of the authority placed in them by the people of the country.

Referring to the premier's coalition proposals, Sir Wilfrid declared that he had been asked to become an adjunct of the government to pass a law which had already been decided upon. The government had failed to realize that there was public opinion to be reconciled and as a result a deep cleavage in the Canadian people was the result of the introduction of this legislation.

This cleavage exists in all the provinces of the dominion. Sir Wilfrid spoke of the opposition of the laboring classes and said they were not less patriotic but they believed if they were to be called upon to give their blood, the wealthy classes should be called upon to give of their wealth.

"Which is the best," the opposition leader asked, "compulsion or conscription or consultation with unity and general satisfaction?" Referring to the question of Quebec, Sir Wilfrid said that the showing of the province was not very satisfactory and it was due to the fact that there have been no relations, family or otherwise, between Quebec and France since the conquest of Canada by Britain. On the other hand there is hardly a family in the English-speaking provinces which has not relatives in Great Britain.

Sir Wilfrid closed his speech by moving, seconded by Hon. Frank Oliver, an amendment to the second reading of the conscription bill, calling for suspension of consideration of the bill until the question can be submitted to the people by way of a referendum.

He intimated that his own followers would have the personal right to vote as he pleased. He said that steps should be taken to give the soldiers and others an opportunity to vote, and pledged the support of Quebec in the event of the referendum being adopted.

Hon. Frank Oliver
Hon. Frank Oliver, who resumed the debate after the recess, said the measure of compulsion had been introduced because the voluntary system had broken down. And why had it broken down? Who was responsible? Who, if not the government? Sir George Foster had talked eloquently of the responsibility toward the men who had gone to carry Canada's name into the battle. They were to be supported so that their sacrifice should not be in vain, so that the honor should be maintained, not by conscription, but by the voluntary system, said Mr. Oliver. It was up to the government to explain to the country why at this time it was necessary to resort to conscription. The country which had sent over 350,000 men, young and old, into the front, should not be less enthusiastic in the past had been maintained and proper direction had been given. Had there, Mr. Oliver asked, been a honest endeavor on the part of the government to explain to the country why at this time it was necessary to resort to conscription, the country which had sent over 350,000 men, young and old, into the front, should not be less enthusiastic in the past had been maintained and proper direction had been given. Soldier Tells a Graphic Story of Life As It Is In German Prison Camps

Pte. Rossiter Holds Attention Of Great Audience By His Recital—Surgery With Scissors And No Anaesthetics—Lack Of Food Chief Complaint—British Prisoner Bayonetted For Refusing To Work In Salt Mines—Dutch Sympathise With British.

In bluff, soldierly fashion, without any frills of language or flights of oratory, Pte. Ivan S. Rossiter absolutely rivetted the attention of an audience which completely filled the First Presbyterian church for two hours last night, while he told the story of his capture by the Germans, at Ypres, last May, his experiences in hospitals and prison camps and his final discharge six months later. Pte. Rossiter went overseas with the 3rd Mounted Rifles and was taken prisoner in the front line trenches, after having been wounded, when the Germans made the case of them all. They had a theatre, a library and a chapel. Pte. Rossiter described in an amusing way how they had accepted an invitation to attend church in the town and were marched thither under guard of soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Subsequently he was transferred to the prison camp at Hameln. The party of 4,000 or more was taken by train by a roundabout way and at every town where they stopped cheering crowds gathered. It transpired and, because of this generally unskilful surgery and lack of subsequent attention, Pte. Rossiter said that his hand would probably never be restored to the condition which proper care would have given.

The wounds were doctored with some sort of mineral ointment that they were being exhibited as prisoners newly captured at the Somme and as a stimulus to a war loan which was being raised.

Pte. Rossiter had not a good word to say for the British prisoners, who were invariably refused to work at munition making brought forth a wave of applause. He regretted that he could not say as much for the other prisoners. All prisoners who were fit were compelled to work somehow, but the British always had to say for the German hospitals and the treatment which the British and Canadian prisoners received from the German nurses and doctors. One doctor made it a practice to try and dampen his patients' spirits by a daily account of German victories, largely

Insufficient Food
The chief complaint was the insufficiency of the rations. Microscopic allowances of bread, tiny fish and soup that was three parts water and one part kitchen odds and ends that the soldiers had to eat.

Other Englishmen were put to work at the cavalry base but were taken away in a hurry. The prisoners managed to put 60 horses out of business before they went, however. An incident which aroused a sign of execration was that of a British prisoner the Germans had plenty, and the only variable accompaniment of every camp, was steadily growing larger. Pte. Rossiter paid a warm tribute to the work of Ambassador Gerard, in mitigating conditions in the German prison camps. He said that when he, with some 60 others, were

Commercial Men's Assn. to Invest Their Surplus Funds in War Bonds

Resolution is Presented at Meeting Saturday Evening and Received Warm Endorsation—Arrangements Are Discussed For Annual Picnic on Dominion Day—Another

Another unusually large gathering of travelling salesmen met in the Bank of Quebec building, Jasper avenue, Saturday evening, under the aus-der J. L. Bond, bemoaned the fact that owing to the shortage of C. N. R. equipment, only one train of about twenty coaches would leave Edmonton on the morning of the picnic instead of two, as had hitherto been the case. The second train will, however, leave

At the outset a degree ceremony was performed under the direction of Senior Councillor Harry A. Stiles, who initiated the following new members into the order: Walter F. Brown, John Deere Plow Co.; R. A. Nothstein, A. C. Smith; A. W. Shaw of Swift Canadian Co.; J. W. Potter W.

R. Brock Co., Ltd., and W. A. Zwicker, Imperial Tobacco Co.

Senior councillors Bond and Stiles gave exhaustive and interesting reports of the proceedings at the grand council meetings, in which special resolutions of appreciation were forth-the matter, and, judging by the mirth greeting this remark, it was evident the catering was in popular hands.

Senior Councillor Stiles has the entertainment of the crowd in hand, and claims to have successfully arranged with the weather bureau to have Old

The delegates took special pride in reporting the great honor conferred on Edmonton council by the appointment of two of its members to grand council offices, Past Councillor W. S. Clay now being grand senior councillor and Past Councillor C. G. Davidson as grand junior councillor.

In consideration of his whole-hearted interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the Edmonton travelling man, Senior Councillor J. L. Bond was unanimously recommended Quite successful was the sale of work and home-cooking held on Saturday by the W.A. of St. Paul's church at Ramsey's store. Everything was sold and a fair sum realized by three o'clock in the afternoon.

To get ready for an apron bazaar in the fall was the chief item of business discussed at the meeting of the auxiliary of the social service home on Monday afternoon. It was decided to make this the last meeting of the season and the winding up of the term's affairs followed in consequence. It was also discussed and arranged to send a circular letter to all the churches in Alberta, putting before them the work of the auxiliary and soliciting their help. Mrs. P. W. Locke, the president of the auxiliary, who has been out of town for some time, was in the chair and the members warmly welcomed her back.

The girls' camp now being erected at Lac Ste. Anne is rapidly approaching completion and is expected to be opened the beginning of the month. To aid in furnishing this summer home a tea and miscellaneous shower will be held Tuesday in the afternoon from three to six, and in the evening from eight to ten, at Rosary Hall, 107th street. All members of the Catholic Women's league and their friends are asked to attend the shower and make it a success and as it is a miscellaneous one, anything which would be of use at a summer camp from a knife and fork to a bed will be very gratefully accepted by the league. The members are arranging for the erection of the building and which is expected this will supply a long felt want and enable girls from offices and stores to have a much needed rest at the lake where everything will be done for their comfort.

A Potato Patch Pile

To the Editor of Woman's Page:
Dear Madam—Did you ever hear of making "a potato patch pile"? Build up a heap, first a layer of seed potatoes, then layer 1 inch well rotted manure then six inches of black earth. These piles are made from 4 to 6 feet high, but each must be crated with open slatted sides, 2 inches apart (any old sticks will do here), so potato vines can grow through. My aunt who lives in St. Paul says they raise astonishingly big quantities of first grade potatoes on wee bits of waste land in the city thereby following this "patch pile" plan. One man they knew harvested 42 bushels from such a pile, in size 4 x 8 ft and 6 feet high. Just think what a help in the 42 bushels of good potatoes are and then his right out to that bit of struggle to keep food to the family ground that you thought too small to bother with and proceed to make yourself a patch pile. Even ashes can help here, throw a few handfuls between each layer in the pile patch. Even yet you know it's not too late, for the quick maturing kind like Early Wonder, Early Ohio and Early Rose Weeks, Early Ohio and Early Rose Weeks.

Unique Exhibit At Edmonton Fair

One of the most unique and interesting exhibits that has ever come to Edmonton is the child welfare exhibit which will be shown here at the Edmonton exhibition, July 9th to 14th. In this exhibit, the material for which is supplied by the National Child Welfare association of New York, the influence which good children have on the world is presented in the most graphic and telling manner. This exhibit consists of a series of most attractive charts or panels, each containing one or more colored paintings properly illustrative, and emphasizing by pointed, concise sentences some fact or principle relating to the physical, mental, or moral welfare of children. Each panel is 36x5 feet in size. These panels cover a wide range of subjects; in fact, they comprehend the principal points of child life, and contain the greatest help for young and inexperienced mothers. It is a marked tribute to the value of these panels on the health of babies, that in the year following their first showing in New York, where over a quarter of a million people saw and studied them, that the city enjoyed a lower death rate of young babies than in any previous year in its history. The panels which will be shown at Edmonton exhibition this year not only deal with the baby's health—others cover the child's food, how to eat, what to eat, and what not to eat; the care of the teeth, disease prevention, correct breathing, the care of the eyes, care of the feet, contagious diseases and the community's responsibility for the health of the people. Another part of the exhibit deals with the mental and moral development of children, beginning with the basis of character, the value of prenatal care, necessity for beginning in babyhood the cultivation of right habits, of the will, the emotions and self-reliance. Other panels show development through play, and growth through study. The panels on growth through work are the most important and interesting in the whole exhibit.

GERMANY SEEKING FOR AN ARMISTICE WITH RUSSIANS

Suggestion This Should Be For Period Of Election For New Government.

Copenhagen, via London, June 18.—The German government, which has been endeavoring both by means of semi-official communications and statement by Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, concerning peace overtures; telegrams by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, to the Council of War and the Schiedemann type, and in other ways to come to a separate peace or with an armistice for the period of the election for the Russian constitutional convention.
The Associated Press has this information from a reliable source. The informant, who has just come from Germany, says that government agents are anxious to reach some understanding because Germany desires to see some stable government established there without which it would be impossible to enter into negotiations. He cited one of the best known German parliamentarians as saying there is little hope of peace as long as the present conditions in Russia continue.

The Daily Poem

THE RECRUIT.

She set aside his gift of flowers—
Rich rose and violet.
Sweet lilies, fresh as morning dew,
And sweeter mignonette.

She listened while he spoke of love,
And breathed a prayer for grace.
For flushing pride and dawning power
Were in his handsome face.

"There's one has slept in Flanders fields
These two long years," she said;
If you would take my hand in yours,
In Flanders find his bed!

"Find there his bed and from it pluck
The courage that he gave,
That single blossom bring me
From his fair, war-swept grave.

"Go bring it back as fresh and fair
As it was borne abroad;
Then could I lay my hand in yours,
Before my soul and God.

The deepening mold in that grim land
Still drinks a rich, red tide;
And bright the flower that he bears
there
For whom another died.

SHIPPING LOSS 1,745,000 TONS IN FOUR MONTHS

German Submarine Toll Of British Merchant Vessels.

Washington, June 18.—The German submarine toll of British merchant shipping since February 17, as shown in official British figures compiled today, is 222 vessels of more than 1,600 tons and 135 of less than 1,500. British steam fishing vessels are incomplete, but a three weeks' total was 78.

Submarines in the period given attacked 299 ships unsuccessfully and the weekly percentage of unsuccessful attacks has ranged from 51 to 73. During the last week given—the seven days ending June 9—it was 58.

Arrivals and sailings in British ports since the extensive submarine campaign began have averaged about 2,500. These are understood to include channel sailings.

The British figures do not give the tonnage of vessels sunk, but officials say that 5,000 tons probably would be a fair average for vessels of more than 1,600 tons destroyed. Computing the total at that average and putting the average of the smaller ships at 1,000 tons, the total loss during slightly less than four months submarine warfare, would reach 1,745,000 tons, or about 250,000 tons less than the entire world's shipping output during 1916.

GAZETTED FLYING OFFICERS.

London, June 18.—The following Canadian officers have been gazetted to be flying officers: Captains A. R. Fortin, A. L. Taylor and E. C. Bishop; Lieutenants P. Cunningham, A. B. Fairclough, H. A. Joslin and J. W. Youille.

EMPLOYEES MUST KEEP CORNS OFF

Says they destroy efficiency but can be lifted right out now.

Many large retail establishments now insist that every employee have cornless feet, because one can not appear pleasant before a patron or be fully efficient when the brain is constantly reminded of these painful pests.

The simplest method known to get relief is to apply a few drops of freese one directly upon the tender, itching corn, which promptly relieves the soreness and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain.

A quarter ounce of freeseone will cost very little at any drug store but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. This drug is gummy but dries in a moment and seems to just shrivel up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

This should interest many men and women here.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain multifoliated cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multifoliated cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

ONLY ONE RIBSTONE TOWN IN THE WORLD—ON G.T.P. MAIN LINE

Native Name "Assinkospikaganit"—Surrounding Farmers Have Developed Prospering Trade Centre—G.T.P. Kept Busy Catching Up To Needs Of The Town And The Surrounding District.

(By a recent visitor.)

On the Great Trunk Pacific Railway midway between Winnipeg and the coast is the new town of Ribstone. Though a small town now, it is growing rapidly and has all the earmarks of one that will "make good."

There are many interesting facts to be related about this embryo town. In looking up the derivation of the name Ribstone many interesting things were revealed.

In this whole broad world there is no other place or thing named Ribstone. Continuing search attracted the fact that it was an Indian name. The creek which rises down near the thriving town of Ribstone near the Saskatchewan River was the first to receive the name, and that the name was given to it because of its peeing in its course over many strange layers or strata or "ribs" of stone.

STRANGE STORY OF A STRANGE GIRL ON MONARCH SCREEN

Seldom has a girl ever started life in less promising circumstances than did Poppy. Left an orphan when scarcely more than a baby, she was reared by a miserly and unfeeling uncle in Bloomington. Bullied, starved and beaten, her heart became transfused with a bitter spirit of hate. But the spirit of the girl was never broken, and finally, when she was fourteen years old, after an unusual exhibition of brutality by her aunt, she decided it was better to take chances with the unknown world than to remain a victim of this tyranny.

So she ran away, and wandered for days in the semi-desert of the Grand Canyon, until she was found by a hunter and taken to his home in Transvaal.

A short time previously, Lucie Abinger, a wealthy resident of Durban with an enviable reputation among women, took advantage of the absence of his wife from home to marry a mysterious, heavily veiled visitor. His wife returned unexpectedly, found evidence of the visit, and in her fury, she parted, soon to be divorced, and Abinger retired to his home in Transvaal.

His two greatest intimates, Dr. Charles Bramham and Evelyn Carson, were as ignorant as anyone of the strange woman who had married his brother-in-law. Carson was becoming bored by Durban society, and more particularly by the obvious attempts of his brother-in-law to seduce her. He decided to visit Abinger.

Thus does the story of one of the strongest girls in contemporary fiction start. The story is "Poppy," a film-serial which is being presented at the Monarch theatre all this week, with Norma Talmadge in the name part. The dramatist has done his work well, and the director who was responsible for "The Iron Claw" and other well-known pictures, has here eliminated at least one reel of the without damaging the story in the least; in fact, the result would be much more satisfactory to the spectator. All in all, however, it is an interesting picture with many beautiful scenes, and a story which has supported Miss Talmadge in past film productions.

EMPIRE—"The Dark Silence," presented yesterday at the Empire theatre for a three day run, is a picture in which Clara Kimball Young, one of the few very popular actresses of the moment, is exceptionally good advantage, ranking very favorably with her big productions in which she has appeared by the dozen. The picture is a World picture, directed by Albert Capellani, and tells a vivid story of a girl artist who meets a lover, only to find him suddenly dead. The girl left behind is misinterpreted, with the result that she is branded a murderess. In the end, she is cleared, and the story is a most interesting one.

The chorus was numerous, well trained and contained far more than the usual percentage of good looking girls. The music goes with a zip and a swing that means a good thing well done. The lighting effects are artistic, and, altogether, "The Dark Silence" establishes a terrible standard for following shows to measure up against.

However, there are all kinds of other good things on the Pantages bill this week. There are some up-to-date war movies and a lively comedy film as an appetizer. The Lampins, illusionists, are good for a laugh about every ten seconds. One of the pair is a clever conjuror, and the assistant, who "gives the show away," does some real comedy stuff. Smith and McGinnis, a youthful and very personable feminine duo, sing "In a Modern Way" and get a deservedly good hand.

The playlet presents Wm. R. Abraham and Anita Stewart in a domestic comedy entitled "When Hubby Realizes," which depicts the reform of a tyrannical and selfish husband by rather drastic but wholly effective methods. The action centers in the metamorphosis of "Peggy," a demure little stay-at-home, to a "sport" (temporarily), and Miss John certainly plays the part with a punch that goes clear home.

Joe Roberts' fame as a banjoist has long preceded his appearance on the stage. He is certainly a wizard, and the amount of music he can

Sporting Facts and Fancies

Pipp may not have a euphonious name but the fans don't care. The sound of his bat cracking the ball makes up for whatever tone deficiencies there may be in his name. And that batting sound is becoming more frequent and louder every day.

There have been frequent rumors that this was going to be a bad year for baseball but the rumor-mongers, as is most frequently the case, have been on the wrong track. Reports from everywhere indicate large and enthusiastic crowds, and the owners are correspondingly enthusiastic.

Old Boy Vouch is getting to be a regular terror to the pitchers. Every time he steps to the plate the moundsmen has to think twice before he uncorks.

Connie Mack is gathering recruits wherever he thinks he has spotted likely timber. His latest rookie, Joe Dugan, the Holy Cross star, is all excited over the prospect of joining the Athletics, which he will do at the close of the college season. Last season the young collegian played with the New Haven Colonials and, like Jack Barry and Billy Kopf, who have played in Mack's infield, hails from the Nutmeg state.

If anybody has an idea that Ping Bodie hasn't got major league stuff in him, that person had better revise his notion. Ping is displaying great form and has developed into one of the mainstays of the Athletics.

It will take a long time before anybody breaks the record recently made by umpire, Lord Bill Byron of the National League. In the recent game at Cincinnati between the Giants and the Reds, Lord Byron chased no less than six players out of the game and, as everybody knows, he had a very pleasant day. Nothing pleases Byron so much as the jeers of the fans and he just felt in a jerky mood, so he let 'em have it. A player merely had to look cross-eyed at Byron and the axe fell, the player trundling himself off the field. In fact, it was a regular funeral procession and the fans enjoyed it as much as they did the game.

Today in Pugilistic Annals.

1895—Young Lusting, the little Hebrew boxer, was born in New York. Lusting, whose first name is Max, began his ring career in 1911, and soon became a favorite preliminary boxer because of his cleverness and his willingness to mix it up. In 1913 he began taking on some of the higher class boxers and was usually victorious. He scored knockouts over Young Saylor, Young McDonough and Ah Chung, the Chinese boxer. He has made excellent showings in bouts with Kid Herman, Tommy Houck, Willie Chandler, Benny Leonard, Young Britt and One Round Hogan.

1909—Jimmy Clabby knocked out Dick Fitzpatrick in eight rounds at Hammond, Ind.

1911—Knockout Brown knocked out Bant Dorsey in four rounds at Albany, N.Y.

CINCINNATI, June 18.—Chicago found Toney for four hits in the fourth inning today and these, coupled with an error by Toney himself, were enough to permit them to annex four runs. Chicago won in handy fashion, 4 to 2.

St. Louis Shut Out
ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Cooper pitched a tight ball with men on bases today and Pittsburg shut out St. Louis, 4 to 0. Packard was driven from the mound in the fifth. Watson went in, but two singles resulted in three runs.

SOME BANISHER IS LORD BYRON

Has Put Away Thirty-Five National League Players So Far.

Lord Byron, or "Battling Byron," as he is now known since his bout with John McGraw in Cincinnati last Friday, leads all the National League umpires by several city blocks in banishing players. Thirty-five have been exiled in the National thus far and Byron takes credit for 19 of these dismissals. Ernest Quigley has removed seven, Al Orth four, Hank O'Day three, Charles Rigler one and Bill Klem one. Most of the players Byron has chased have been tossed off the field because they thought they could call balls and strikes better than he could.

The start of Friday's scrap between Byron and McGraw dates back, it is believed, to the game of June 5, in Cincinnati, in which six men—four Reds and two Giants—were told to get off the green. All McGraw did to get banished was to remark to Byron, who is shy a finger on one of his hands: "I suppose you lost that finger in somebody's pocket."

The behavior of the Cardinals and Robins this season has been 100 per cent pure, no St. Louis or Brooklyn player having gotten into trouble with the arbiters. Eight Giants have been banished, the same number of Braves, seven Reds, seven Cubs, four Phillies and one Pirate.

Shortstop Fletcher, of the Giants, and Manager Mitchell, of the Cubs, lead, at present, in getting in bad with the umpires. Each has been exiled three times. Men excommunicated twice are Bancroft of the Phillies, Groh of the Reds, Twombly of the Braves, Doyle of the Cubs, and McGraw of the Giants.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Dause emerged victor in a pitching duel with Harper today, Detroit winning, 1 to 0. Washington got only one man as far as second base.

Boston Won Two

BOSTON, June 18.—The world's champions cut down Chicago's lead in the American League race today, winning two games. The scores were 6 to 4 and 5 to 7. Chicago led by three runs in the ninth inning of the afternoon game but the Red Sox cracked out three singles to take advantage of two errors and a passed ball, scoring four runs and victory. Pitcher Shore and Assistant Manager Wagner of the Boston were notified today that they had been indefinitely suspended for argument's sake during Friday's game.

Good Support
NEW YORK, June 18.—St. Louis won today from New York, 1 to 0. The Both Groom and Fisher did splendid work and were well supported. Catcher Nunamaker of New York was ordered from the field by Umpire Nallin for criticizing the umpire from the bench.

When You Market Consider Your Less Fortunate Neighbor.

"Every citizen who uses more in his household than his household actually needs is increasing the cost of living for those less fortunate, and he is hindering the prosecution of the war."

—Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance.

THE well-to-do woman who sits at her phone and orders provisions lavishly, regardless of price, is abusing the power of money as a bully abuses brute strength!

No longer can we help ourselves as we see fit from an unlimited food supply—we are either limiting our buying to our own real needs or "hogging" someone else's share.

Extravagant buying by those who can afford it, with waste in some kitchens, and excess at some tables, will inevitably bring still greater hardships to those who cannot afford the prices, and hunger to those who must live on less.

Buy for your household as carefully and economically as your husband buys for his factory, store or office. Study food values as well as prices—make it a point to know just what you are getting—eliminate waste—and you'll find that you can feed your family well on far less than you spend now.

Invest the saving in Canadian War Savings Certificates and you will be doubling your service to the nation.

War Savings Certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $50 and $100, to be repaid in three years at full face value. They cost $21.50, $43 and $86 respectively, at all Money Order Post Offices and Banks, thus yielding over 5% interest.

OVER 8,000 JEWS EVACUATE JAFFA

Steps Are Being Taken to Make Provision For the Refugees

Boston, June 18.—Details of the recent evacuation of Palestine have just been received by the Boston branch of the provisional committee for general Zionist affairs. The cable in part follows:

"Between 8,000 and 9,000 Jews were compelled to leave Jaffa. Of these, more than 3,000 are now in lower Galilee; more than 1,000 in Petach Tik Wah, the remainder having been dispersed in the colonies of Judea and Samaria. Thirty Jews have received special permission to remain in Jaffa. Only six hundred persons were compelled to leave the farms. The deaths incidental to the evacuation were due to insufficient nourishment and the hardships of the journey. In order to take care of the refugees, clay cottages are being erected and if sufficient funds are forthcoming, public works will be started in order to help them.

MERCHANTS BANK'S ASSETS INCREASED BY 25 MILLIONS

Remarkable Record of Progress in Annual Statement of Financial Institution.

A very remarkable and gratifying statement was presented at the annual meeting of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, and exhibiting the position of the bank at April 30th last and the profit and loss account for the year ending at that date. Even at a time when large increases in bank business are not at all unusual, the Merchants' Bank showing is such as to attract attention.

During the year the amount of the public funds entrusted to this bank, as exhibited by a comparison of

C. MACAROW, general manager Merchants' Bank, whose annual report, recently presented, shows a prosperous year.

The two statements, has increased by a sum exceeding $24,500,000, or at the rate of 31 per cent. for the year. They state that at the beginning of 1916 the bank had assets of $196,730,000. The growth has been well distributed among all classes of business. Note circulation has risen by some two million dollars to $9,483,468, interest earning and non-interest deposits by about ten millions to $65,000,484 and $27,101,687 respectively. A more temporary increase is that of bank balance abroad, about three million dollars.

To offset the increase the bank exhibits an even greater growth in total assets, which have now reached the sum of $121,130,558. The liquid portion of these assets, including cash, bank balances, call loans and high-grade securities, reaches the figure of $52,041,624, and represents 48.9 per cent. of the public liabilities of which the coin and Dominion notes alone, in vaults and in the central gold reserve, exceed 15 per cent. of the liabilities.

During the year the bank added six millions to its accumulation of British treasury bills and similar securities, representing assistance granted to the financing of Imperial munitions business in this country, and the item in which these securities are included now stands at $11,263,126. About $1,400,000 was invested during the year in Dominion and Provincial Government securities.

With these greatly increased funds at its disposal, and with its liquid reserve already established at a very high rating at the beginning of the year, the Merchants' Bank was able to apply a considerable amount of money to the task of meeting the requirements of borrowing clients, and its holdings of commercial paper increased by nearly 14 millions, to the sum of $62,757,958, thereby indicating a considerable degree of confidence on the part of the Canadian business situation, as well as a disposition to do all possible to serve the interest of Canadian trade and industry.

Partly, no doubt, as a result of this greatly expanded business, the profits of the bank for the year, which went up to pre-war levels, were of very comfortable proportions and well above the preceding year. Amounting to $1,180,305.54, they allowed of an appropriation for $1,000,000 for writing down of premises, and an addition of nearly $170,000 to the profit-and-loss balance, after providing for the war tax, several donations, and the customary 10 per cent. dividend (taking $700,000). General Manager D. C. Macarow and the board of directors are certainly entitled to the gratitude both of shareholders and of clients.

DEDICATE EDIFICE TO HEROIC DEAD

Rheims Cathedral Will be Turned Into Pantheon For Allies' Heroes

Washington, June 18.—Conversion of the battle-corn cathedral at Rheims into a pantheon for the unknown dead of all the armies fighting in France for the common cause of democracy has been determined upon by the French government. The plan, to be put into execution as soon as the war is over, has been announced in a dispatch to the headquarters of the French Restoration association. It is proposed that the cathedral shall not be restored, but that representatives of all the allies shall place their battle-flags within what remains of the historic edifice, which shall then be formally dedicated as the monument to the heroic dead.

LAC LA BICHE

The heavy rains of last week were a blessing indeed for the crops and gardens. We hear from all over the district that they are in very good shape. The rain put out all the forest fires, which had been raging for weeks.

Moose are getting more plentiful all the time. A big buck walked into the pasture of Mr. A. I. Walker recently and when he had satisfied his appetite and was ready to leave, he put a massive head under the wire fence, and with his immense strength tore away the five wire strands, top rail and fence posts and walked off. The fish catch continues good, although the lake has been very rough. The knotty question of school taxes seems to be somewhat nearer a solution. Instead of continuing to go to law, the newly-elected board of trustees is making commonsense efforts to reach amicably a basis of satisfactory taxation, with the chief tax payers, H. B. Co. and McCarthy.

The new summer time table is now in effect. The gasoline car for Lac la Biche, carrying passengers and express only, leaves Edmonton on Thursdays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. This car leaves Lac la Biche for Edmonton on Mondays and Fridays at the same hour. A mixed train, carrying passengers, freight, etc., leaves Edmonton on Tuesday mornings at 7:30, arriving here at 4:30 p.m., and after a stop of one hour, goes on to the gravel pit, some 40 odd miles north of Lac la Biche. This point is called Leismer. This mixed train returns again to Lac la Biche very early on Thursday morning and departs at 9 a.m. the same day for Edmonton, where it is due to arrive at 6 p.m. Mails arrive in Lac la Biche on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons and leave with the Monday and Friday trains.

TUESDAY, JUNE 19, 1917.

WHERE?

Russian socialists are angry with President Wilson for talking out victory. They must have heard somewhere about the idea of peace without victory.

THEIR BUSY DAYS.

Berlin journalists now have just about time to explain that the recent British advance was really a victory when another one occurs.

NO SUBSTITUTE.

From Ottawa comes news that tax will be imposed on all incomes in excess of $3,000 per year, but is justified as a war measure and as a means of raising revenue. But it is not the expropriation of excess war profits. The tax will fall equally upon the man who has made no money out of the war. The demand for the expropriation of the profiteer's spoils not to be side-stepped that way.

CENSURE AND CREDIT.

No doubt Canadian papers deserve some of the censure handed them at a press meeting in Toronto, for their share in depriving Canada of vigorous and efficient leadership during the war. Such leadership does not come to us as gift from the gods, without exertion. It is to be attained only by free and candid exchange of ideas and opinions. Such leadership as we have had has been mainly that of men who were washed along by public opinion, would have been far worse if the newspapers had tabooed criticism and thus smothered public opinion, as was demanded by one party when the war began. And would have been far more efficient if less attention had been paid to the silly notion that in silence there is safety. Along with the censure due for not criticizing earlier and more freely, the Canadian press deserves credit for what it has accomplished by refusing to sit absolutely dumb before the spectacle of wholesale craft and rampant incompetence.

TO AVOID REBELLION.

In view of the developments since Sir Robert Borden announced his intention of substituting selective conscription for voluntary enlistment, there can hardly be any doubt that to apply conscription by arbitrary act of Parliament would precipitate an epidemic of riots in Quebec—which in telling us six months ago could develop into actual civil war. On the other hand, Mr. LaVerne—chief promoter of the Quebec hostility—declares that if a conscription bill is submitted to the people and approved by them he and his faction will accept it without making further trouble. And, whether we like it or not, this energetic demagogue and his followers seem to have the power and the will to make trouble of vast and serious extent. It is to be hoped therefore, to avoid rebellion—which the director of National Service declared to be inevitable—Sir Robert Borden will consent to accept an amendment offered by the Opposition and ask the voters to approve the measure before putting it into force. Reinforcements for the front are needed and needed badly; and a rebellion in Canada could help only the enemy.

WHAT ABOUT THIS?

It is notable that those Conservative papers which vociferously assert that the Sifton Government got the solid support of the alien-born voters—especially of voters of German and Austrian descent—do not cite as proof the result in the constituency of Stony Plain. That constituency contains a larger percentage of voters of German descent than any other constituency in the Province, and it elected the Opposition candidate.

A SOUTHWEST VIEW.

The Calgary Herald expresses the view that "No party or sect or race should be allowed to dominate this Dominion, and the party, 'set or race that tries its hand at anything approaching domination should be severely sat upon. Majority must rule or the state will go to smash." Presumably, the Herald thinks the majority should be given a chance to say whether they approve the sort of discriminatory and restricted conscription proposed by Sir Robert Borden without consultation with his party or anybody else.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

Col. Currie, Conservative M. P., has been criticizing the department of trade and commerce for lacking aggressiveness, and also censures the United States Government for stipulating that loans made to the Allies must be spent in the United States. He is right enough in attributing a want of aggressiveness to our Canadian trade and commerce department, though somewhat slow in discovering it. But what is to be gained by censuring Washington for its aggressiveness along the same line is not apparent. The Allies are glad enough to get United States money on condition that it be spent for United States supplies; and conditions do not suggest that the spending of a part of this money in Canada would have stimulated this country to greater war exertions. Rather the contrary. Canada's war effort has declined as the war contracts have increased.

ADMITTING INCOMPETENCE.

Sir George Foster says the cause of the present prices of necessities is the war, and conditions resulting from it, and while admitting that speculation plays a part in fixing the prevailing prices he declares it impossible to fix arbitrary prices by authority of government. The announcement does not prove that Government regulation of prices is impossible but it does prove that Government regulation of prices in any effective way is not to be looked for from Sir George and his associates. The Governments of Great Britain and France have certainly fixed prices arbitrarily, and the Government of the United States certainly intends to do so if the profiteers are not scared by the threat of it. If the Canadian Government cannot arbitrarily fix prices to such extent as to eliminate the operations of the speculators whom Sir George admits are exacting toll from the producers and the consumers—it is time the present ministers gave place to those who can do so.

LEGAL INQUIRIES

Legal questions will be answered in the columns of The Bulletin, after being submitted to The Bulletin's own legal representatives. Write on one side of the paper only. Be brief. Send stamped envelope for reply.

Legal Age for Marriage.

Does the marriage of a youth under age which took place six years ago hold or can he have the same annulled? Of course a wrong age was given to the registrar when applying for licence.

LOOBY, Beaver Hills.

If the parties to the marriage have never lived together, that is to say, if they separated immediately, it might be possible to have the marriage annulled; otherwise it is not possible.

OPPOSES HEREDITARY TITLES.

Another well-merited honor is that accorded to Mr. Joseph W. Flavell, chairman of the imperial munition board. That organization has grown to gigantic proportions. Some idea of its extent may be obtained from the fact that it is spending in Canada at the present time between $50,000,000 and $55,000,000 per month. Mr. Flavell's position is a purely honorary one, and he is entitled to every public recognition. At the same time the Journal newspapers have placed themselves on record as being opposed to the introduction of hereditary titles in Canada, and we—and a great number of Canadians who think with us—would have been much more pleased if that principle had not been broken even in such a worthy case as that of Mr. Flavell, who receives a baronetcy.

VICTORS OF VIMY.

Cheers for thee, O tall Canadian! Erect as the evergreen spruce trees, Strong as the withs of oak and birch sprouts, Light in your step as the bark canoe Skimming the waves of Lake Nipigon, Swift as the red deer, brave as the grizzly, Lithe like the panther—lean, too, and tawny; Impetuous as the north wind over Saskatchewan, Driving all foes before in resistless advancing, O valorous victors of Vimy, Lift you on the hilltop
—New York World.

ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Bulletin to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner. To receive attention, every inquiry must bear name and address of the questioner. This information is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

A Question.

Would you kindly answer through the columns of your paper which of the following is correct:
Come young and come old who both children have been.

—Or—

Come young and come old all once children have been.

A SUBSCRIBER.

We are not familiar with the quotation given. Perhaps some reader can answer.
Smoke Bombs.
Could you tell me what chemicals or articles are used for producing dense smoke, such as is used in "smoke bombs"? What parts of each kind is used? Where could these chemicals be purchased? If you cannot tell me, could you inform me where I can obtain the above information.

K. P.
This is more or less of a military secret. It is doubtful if any official information would be given. Probably the Scientific American of New York could give some idea of the ingredients.

Soldier Returning.

A soldier who left Edmonton with one of the local units last December, has been in England since about December. As they are not yet properly trained and expect to stay in England for some time, do you think it would be possible for him to get about two weeks' leave? And if he could get the leave, would the military authorities in England allow him to cross over to Montreal to settle some important business? The crossing to Montreal would take only about eleven or twelve days and one day on the side would settle up the business he wishes to settle.

J. McK.

It is very doubtful if leave could be secured if the man is over 18 years of age. The request could best be presented through his commanding officer.

Current Comment

MISCONCEPTION OF FACTS.

From the Calgary Herald.
English newspapers, which know very little about conditions in Canada, are making expert military writers, including conscription and the Quebec situation. These references are interesting particularly because of their misconception of the facts as they really are.

NO TIME TO MINCE WORDS.

From the Vancouver Sun.
The views expressed by Captain Burnham are an exact echo of the views of a majority of the Canadian people. This is no time for mincing words on the subject which lies at the heart of every lover of fair play. If Canada is to be placed at last on an efficient war footing, it must be done on the principle of a perfect cube, not merely one side of the cube. It is outrageous fair play to conscript manpower without conscripting excess profits and placing food prices under strict control.

IT'S THE WASTE THAT COUNTS.

From the Province.
With the crusade against waste of food materials, appealing both to patriotism and ordinary economic good sense, it is instructive to recall the remarks of the millionaire meat manufacturer, that he did not mind the waste of his fortune from the mustard that people ate, but from what they left on their plates.

CAN'T BITE AND TALK AT ONCE.

From the London Times.
Did French, with their ready appreciation of gallantry in other races, are using the language of eulogy about the British troops. "For thirty years they have been fighting for us," says the French press. The British bulldog has been tightening his muscles and sharpening his teeth. He is now biting, and will not relax his hold. He is and he does not say much about it. His friends abroad will remember that it is impossible to bite and talk at the same time.

THE OLD STORY.

From the Calgary Herald.
Hon. Thomas Crerar rises up optimistically to discuss the labor troubles in Western Canada as likely to be settled in a day or two, which is very similar to the response which he made to a similar question six months ago.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Dear Sir: I should be pleased if you could publish the following remarks in your paper, in regard to the political muddle at Ottawa, as I believe they represent the opinion of the majority of the people in Alberta, although the minority give greater publicity to their views.

I am sorry that the full text of the Military Service Act, introduced by the premier in parliament, has not come to hand, in order that I might have an opportunity to see from the same whether it is really as bad as it is being represented to be. However, I think it may be assumed that I am not alone in feeling that the act is a very bad one. The prime minister, in introducing the act, said that it was a very bad one, and that it was a very bad one. The prime minister, in introducing the act, said that it was a very bad one, and that it was a very bad one.

The first question, therefore, is whether this is to be forced on us as mere vassals, or whether the conscription bill is a free man with a right to have a say as to how they are to be governed. This question then being decided, we will say in favor of the latter. The prime minister, in introducing the act, said that it was a very bad one, and that it was a very bad one.

There are several reasons why the government should not introduce conscription. In the first place, at the time the Borden government was placed in power, the world was in a state of confusion. The government, in introducing the act, said that it was a very bad one, and that it was a very bad one.

Furthermore, the present government has outlived its term, and is no longer entitled to the support of the people. The government, in introducing the act, said that it was a very bad one, and that it was a very bad one.

Months, the government announced that this policy was to be maintained.

When again up until a few months ago, the prime minister and the members of his cabinet were very emphatic in their statements that the government had no thought of conscription while now, a bill for conscription has been introduced in parliament.

In the midst of all this bungling, it is very apparent why the prime minister should wish a coalition government. If he had found himself competent for his duties, he would not have been so very willing to have the Conservative party take all the blame, but now that he has made a bungling of things in general, he very likely invites the opposite party to go in and share the responsibility.

But the chief reason why the government should quit its office is that it has acted treacherously with the country and is still doing so, and in this connection it is only necessary to look at the proposed conscription bill. The prime minister is either opposed to conscription, or it was his policy before he arrived in England, or it became his policy after he arrived in England. I do not think there is any other alternative, and in whichever one of these three positions we place him, it seems pretty apparent that he is guilty of falsehood.

The prime minister in introducing his bill spoke of his conviction of the necessity of conscription for Canada. Therefore, he is not to be introduced conscription, his statement in parliament is very evidently false.

tions received from that city were vague and difficult to interpret. We venture to think, sir, that if there has been any error on our part it has been rather on the side of understatement of the teachers' case. For instance in giving the salary figures referred to we quoted the nominal Edmonton schedule of $1,800 to $2,300, and the Calgary schedule of $1,800 to $2,400, a retainer from pointing out clearly that in Edmonton the salaries with the 10 per cent reduction actually ranged from $1,620 to $2,070, while in Calgary, where the full schedule has been restored, $1,800 to $2,400 accurately represents the salary situation. These are the high school figures, but the same fact holds true with regard to the public school teachers, except that some of them are now receiving only a 5 per cent cut.

We would like to take this opportunity to refer again to one or two arguments that have been persistently advanced in support of this suggestion. It is inaccurate to speak of the high school teachers as a body receiving $2,000 net per year in Edmonton. It is only the principals and the three or four teachers who through long and faithful service are at the maximum who receive that amount under the reduced schedule.

The statement that the teachers' requests came too late for action this year is also incorrect, for petitions to have the schedule restored were made to the board before the estimates for 1917 were passed, although it is true that after they were fixed we approached the board again. Even though we had been late, however, supplementary estimates are not an unheard of thing with public bodies; but in this case a supplementary estimate was quite unnecessary, as we are informed that the board had, and still have, on hand a surplus of between $16,000 and $17,000 available for contingencies, a sum which was sufficient to meet the cost of restoring the schedule for the balance of the year.

We would also like to draw attention to the fact that any reference to this question as a request for an increase of salaries is misleading. The petition of the teachers was simply that the 10 per cent cut in their salaries be discontinued.

We regret, sir, that this question has had to be referred to again in your columns. The teachers of Edmonton, we believe, are a body of faithful and conscientious servants of the public, and we believe that the circumstances of the less publicity in the way of controversy there is in connection with their work the better it is for all concerned. In this instance, however, the teachers have honestly thought, and still think, that the grounds for their request that salary schedules be restored were entirely adequate. In their preparation and presentation of their case before the board they strove to be fair. It is possible, of course, for errors to creep into a calculation, but we believe that any of our statements were intentionally inaccurate or misleading.

We deprecate the waiving aside as inaccurate of figures which we have reasonable evidence to believe correct. Yours truly,

JOHN W. BARNETT,
Secretary Edmonton High School Teachers' Association,
Strathcona High School, June 15, 1917.

Adventures of Uncle Wiggily

Uncle Wiggily and the Hatter

Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, as Mr. Longears, the rabbit gentleman, started to hop out of his hollow stump bungalow one morning. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Well, what is it?" asked the bunny with a polite bow. "Do you want anything from the store?"

"Some carrot coffee, if you please," answered the muskrat lady. "When you finish your walk and have had a nice adventure, bring home some coffee."

"I'll do it," promised Uncle Wiggily, and then, as he hopped along, over the fields and through the woods, he thought perhaps he had better buy the carrot coffee first.

"For," said he to himself, "I might have such a funny adventure that I'd forget all about what Nurse Jane told me."

Now, you just wait and see what happened, if you please.

It did not take the bunny long to get to the coffee, the monkey doddle gentleman who kept the store wrapping it up for him in a paper that had been twisted around a lollypop candy.

"It's a bit sticky," said the monkey doddle storekeeper, speaking of the lollypop paper, "but that will stop the coffee from falling out."

"Fine!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, and then he hopped on to look for an adventure. He had not gone very far when, all of a sudden, he heard a voice saying:

"Well, I don't know what to do about it, that's all I never saw such trouble!" The idea of wanting more carrot coffee for this time of day.

"Hi! Trouble!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "This is where I come in. What is it you can't get ready for this time of day, and who are you?" asked the bunny, for he saw no one.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" called a voice, and stepped a little man, with such a large hat that it covered him from head to foot.

"Oh, excuse me," said Uncle Wiggily. "You are?"

"The Hatter! Exactly! You have guessed it," said the little man, opening a window which was cut in the side of his hat. The window was just opposite his face, which was inside, so he could look out at the bunny gentleman.

"I'm the Hatter, from 'Alice in Wonderland,'" went on the little man. The bunny hadn't really guessed it, though he might if he had time.

"And what is the trouble?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I've just been ordered by the Queen of Hearts to get up a tea party right away, and she expects me to get ready in a minute," went on the Hatter. "And here it is 10 o'clock in the morning, and the tea's at 5, and I haven't even a single lollypop."

"You have lots of time," said Uncle Wiggily. "Hours and hours."

"Yes, but I haven't the tea!" cried the Hatter. "Don't mind me, but I'm as mad as a hatter—lollypops, and there's nothing madder than them!"

He said, sort of grinding his teeth. This grinding made the Hatter think of the coffee in his pocket. So, holding out the package, he said:

"I don't suppose this would do, would it?"

"What?" asked the Hatter.

"It's coffee," went on the bunny, "but—"

"The very thing!" cried the Hatter, who was now smiling. "It will be just the thing for the 5 o'clock tea. We'll have it right here—I'll set the table."

and opening two little doors, lower down in his big hat, he stuck his head through them and began brushing off a broad, flat stump near Uncle Wiggily.

"The stump will do for a table," said the Hatter. "This is great, Uncle Wiggily! We'll have tea for Alice after all, and make things happen as they do in the school. Don't you see, I was as mad as a hatter, and I have to be mad—make believe, you know—or things wouldn't come out right."

"I see," said Uncle Wiggily, remembering that it was quite silly to be "as mad as a hatter," though he never before knew what it meant.

"But you see, my dear sir," the rabbit went on, "I have coffee, and not tea."

"It doesn't matter," said the Hatter. "I'll boil it in a coconut shell, and it will do her very well, and with that he took out from somewhere inside his hat, half a coconut shell. This he set on top of the stump on a little three-legged stool, and built a fire under it.

"But you need water to make coffee—I mean tea," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I have it!" cried the Hatter, and, picking up an umbrella plant growing near by, he squeezed some water from it into the coconut shell kettle.

Uncle Wiggily poured some of the ground coffee into the umbrella water, which was now boiling, and then the bunny exclaimed:

"But we have no sugar!"

"Well, sweeten it with the paper that came off the lollypop," said the Hatter, tearing off a bit of it and tossing it into the tea-coffee.

"What about milk?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "All the milk I want cream in her coffee—I mean tea."

"Here we are!" cried the Hatter. With that he picked a leaf from a milkweed plant, and, with the stump and squeezed out some drops of milk into a cup he made from a Jack-in-the-pulpit flower.

"Now we're all ready for 5 o'clock tea!" cried the Hatter, and just then along came Alice from Wonderland, with the March Hare, and they sat down to the strange tea.

"What happened to have a piece of cherry pie in his pocket, and they had a little lunch after all. And the carrot coffee with milkweed cream in it tasted just like catnip tea, so everything came out all right."

Famous Women

On June 19, 1892, there died in Edinburgh, France, Mary Ann Clarke, whose name is now famous. In the year 1892 charges had been brought against her, and both Parliament and London society looked to this woman to substantiate certain allegations. The odd house of 100K has several times been in trouble and its members have often experienced the same. Mary Ann Clarke, who died in 1892, was known to be a woman of more than ordinary intelligence. Her history of any other individual is the executioner's axe. Another son, George, Duke of Clarence, who was having previously been poisoned, Edward, Prince of Wales, who married her great-granddaughter, was murdered after the battle of Tewkesbury. Besides these relatives, Mary Ann Clarke, who lived long in exile, had a brother-in-law, a son-in-law, and several other more distant relatives. Another son-in-law, John, Duke of Exeter, who married her daughter, Anne, lived long in exile, and in such poverty as to be compelled to beg his bread and in 1833 his corpse was found stripped naked on the sea shore near Dover. Her grand children were killed in battle or fell victims to the executioner's axe. She survived all her troubles and all her children except one and lived to a ripe old age. She lies buried in the Collegiate Church at Fotheringhay.

Dear Uncle Tom—This is my third letter to your club. On June 7th we planted three beds of flowers by our school. And today I think the flowers will come up soon. The boys at school are very fond of catching gophers. Some of the gophers that I caught were so small that they could not put them out of the pocket. One boy caught nine gophers. He was playing out doors but one in his pocket and all the others in his pocket. He pulled it by the tail and it made a noise; the teacher told him to go outdoors and all the boys were laughing at the children were laughing at him carrying the gopher outdoors by the tail.

Today's Anniversaries

On June 19, 1819, the first Assembly of Virginia met at Jamestown. Settlements had by that time become so numerous that eleven corporations sent their representatives. On this day in the year 1729 John Mathews, aged 18, was executed at Tyburn, England, for printing a political work while he was still an apprentice. A memorable event took place on June 19, 1754, when the states, assembled at Albany, N.Y., proposed a union for defense against England. Delegates were present from New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York. The battle of Blenheim was fought on June 19, 1800.

NORWEGIAN SHIP SUNK.

Ynander, Holland, June 18, via London.—The crew of the Norwegian sailing vessel Perfect, 1,085 tons gross, has arrived here. The ship was torpedoed and sunk. The Perfect had a cargo of wheat from Bahia for Copenhagen.

Little Stories of Big Men

The little town of Westport, N.Y., thirty-three years ago today, was a small town of a citizen, though how much enriched neither Westport nor the rest of the United States in general and Wyoming in particular. At the time, this citizen was christened John H. Osborne, and many years later, when he was governor of Wyoming and still assistant secretary of state, however, he began at the beginning, when Johnny Osborne had finished school and had to go to the University of Vermont. He was graduated with honors, and, seeking a job which might prove to his presence and where his presence would be of use to the state, he decided to become a lawyer. He practiced law for several years, and then, looking into the possibilities of sheep raising, Dr. Osborne decided that there were great possibilities in this industry, and, laying aside his medical instruments, bought him a lot of sheep, and it wasn't long before he was the largest individual sheep owner in Wyoming. As a side line, John Osborne went into politics, and finally decided to leave his sheep and try his hand at holding office. He did that well, as he has done everything he has ever tackled. He held various offices under the territorial government of Wyoming and was governor of the state from 1893 to 1897, declining a renomination in 1896. He served one term in the house of representatives. In 1899 he entered the lists as democratic and free silver candidate in the Wyoming legislative assembly. He was elected. He was not elected. Mr. Osborne has for many years been a close personal and political friend of William Jennings Bryan. In 1915, President Wilson named him as assistant secretary of state, which position he held for some time, resigning about a year later to resume business.

WAR ON THE RUSSIAN FRONT.

Terrific charges are being witnessed these days on the Russian front, where the German and Russian trenches are almost "within speaking distance" of each other. If you watch long enough you will see first the Russian come out of the ground, set up a great yell and rush for the German trench opposite. When they reach it they suddenly stop and, with just as much yelling, return to their own trenches. Presently the Germans come out of their trenches and repeat the performance. Here is the reason for all this "charging and counter-charging," during which, by the way, not a shot is fired. The German troops want food and the Russians strong drink. The Russians have the former, the Germans the latter, and so they just exchange products. The Fritz set up a sign marked "Ready" and the Russians start their "charge" for the bottles of brandy which have been set up outside the trench. After they have gone back they in turn set up a similar sign and the Germans start their "charge" for the strong drink. The result is that the German troops are getting drunk and the Russian troops are getting hungry.

Little Boy Had Eczema

On Face and Hands—Local Doctors Treated Him in Vain—How Ours Was Finally Effectual.

Trenton, Ont., May 21.—This letter will interest all mothers of young children, because it tells of the best means obtainable of overcoming the annoying and torturing skin troubles which come to so many children.

Mrs. Waldron, who has several children treating her boy for eczema, but all in vain. Finally she heard about Dr. Chase's Ointment and her letter tells of the wonderful results obtained by the use of this soothing, healing ointment.

Mrs. Samuel Waldron, George street, Trenton, Ont., writes: "About four years ago, my little boy had a rash on his face and hands which the doctors called Eczema. He gave us a wash for it, and some ointment, which we used, but without benefit. I think we tried all the doctors here. Finally we tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and gave it a good trial. We could see that it was gradually healing. At first it appeared to burn the skin, then this skin would peel up, finally he got rid of it entirely. During the winter of the next two years we noticed a symptom of the disease under the skin. Each time we used more Dr. Chase's Ointment, curing it both times. For the last two years he has not had a return symptoms at all, so we think that he is now entirely cured."
